The actions of our first year uncovered greater challenges to solve as we worked to strengthen Virginia's workforce and economic competitiveness. And so, we pressed forward and over our second year we've discovered we have a unique role to play in bringing together the leaders and institutions that need avenues to convene and join in their ideas and resources. We have a responsibility to draw attention to the stories and experiences of those who are impacted most by the work about which we and our partners are so passionate. We have become a powerful force for change in how we train, train-up, and retain the workforce that supports Virginia's most critical needs. We have momentum. At its basic level, momentum is generated by a combination of speed and volume. When reviewing this past year, VA Ready quickly pivoted as an organization to become a conduit for not only improving individual lives but also improving the systems upon which they rely. We are the newest voice shouting for change and for positive transformation – people and institutions are listening. The impacts of our decisions are substantial. In the last year, we have helped more than 1,868 scholars find meaningful, family-sustaining work.

Advocating for Corporate & Community Social Responsibility

This past year was exceptional. Every day, Virginia Ready (VA Ready) has worked, and continues working, to nurture positive transformation of our workforce by making vital training opportunities available to more people and by bringing new voices to the table. One of the most impactful ways this is done is through the art of conversation. We're creating opportunities for dialogue and connection to learn from employers about what is truly needed to build and sustain a strong labor force and fill the tens of thousands of job openings across the Commonwealth. This mission of connectivity is the backbone of what we do. VA Ready has embraced this mission as well as the support of those who share our ambition to strengthen Virginia's communities through a diverse, skilled, and motivated workforce.

VA Ready understands more than most just what it means when an individual has worked so hard for the opportunities that so many others take for granted. And we also uniquely understand the challenges that today's employers are facing because we take the time to speak with them. We are not just a job placement organization and we are so much more than a training conduit. We are a liaison for anyone seeking an opportunity to improve their life and improve the lives of others through family-sustaining careers. There is no shortage of organizations and funding mechanisms in Virginia that are working to solve today's workforce challenges. But VA Ready is different. We convene big ideas, foster collaboration in ways where others have failed, and we listen. We see early indicators of both success and challenge, and we're on the ground speaking with scholars, workforce partners, educators, and employers to find the common ground to achieve progress. VA Ready makes it possible for employers to retain skilled workers, to grow their business and give back to their communities at a time when the economy remains uncertain. We make it possible for underserved populations to have the financial reward they deserve for hard work, and we connect them to jobs that have previously overlooked them. By training, rewarding, and supporting Virginians, particularly those in the ALICE (Asset Limited, Income Constrained, Employed) population and members of BIPOC (Black, Indigenous, People of Color) communities, we're able to change the face of the labor force for the better, and support companies in their efforts to strengthen the economy and our society, one job at a time.

Our Work in Action:

FY 2021 for Virginia Ready (VA Ready) was successful on many accounts. For an organization still in its infancy, we achieved volumes in a short period of time through new collaborations, partnerships, community connections, and funding pathways. Rather than maintain status quo, we embraced the challenge we set in our first year to think big, and the results are impressive.

Partners in Success:

One of our most impactful initiatives was pairing Virginia residents with Commercial Driver's License (CDL) training and hiring opportunities to address strains in the supply chain. Within the partnership's first 100 days, 341 Virginians enrolled in a CDL credential course at their local community college and 170 earned their credential. In total, 660 Scholars earned their Commercial Driver's License this year.

Bringing Experts Together:

The Partner Summit, held twice per year, is a gathering of Virginia Ready Business & Education Partners to discuss changes in the labor market, the impact on industry, and the role we each play in transforming and preparing the incoming workforce.

October 2021 Partner Summit:

The Fall Summit highlighted successful partnerships that created direct hiring pipelines for Scholars. With the goal of showcasing how partners worked with VA Ready, attendees were able to see the mission of VA Ready in practice. The changing landscape of the business world has propelled companies to make vital changes to their recruitment and hiring efforts. Key takeaways of this gathering included:

Offer clear career pathways: To avoid staffing issues down the line, invest in your employees' opportunities up front

Identify available workers in your talent pool: Virginia Ready (VA Ready) provides the opportunity to be connected with individuals who are interested in your industry

Improve recruiting efforts to connect with the right people: Companies are now implementing more virtual career events which are actually easier for connecting potential employees with hiring managers

Virginia Ready (VA Ready) invited Skills for Chicagoland's Future to join the summit as a guest speaker and share an overview of its mission and vision to inspire conversation and connection among all organizations present. Keynote speaker Marie Lynch, President and CEO of Skills for Chicagoland's Future, discussed her company's mission to create economic mobility in some of Chicago's more disinvested neighborhoods by matching unemployed and underemployed residents with employers in need of workers.

June 2022 IT/Tech Talent Task Force:

On June 21, 2022, VA Ready gathered IT/Tech Business Partners and Community College Partners to discuss career pathway solutions for credentialed VA Ready Scholars and non-traditional students.

Talent Task Force meetings help create a better understanding of the hiring challenges faced by companies and job seekers, informing the development of career resources and skills-based workshops to better prepare VA Ready Scholars for their selected industry pathway.

With a "Skills First" methodology, Education Partners were given the opportunity to share what is being learned and applied in the classroom and gain insights from businesses about potential gaps in the skills needed for the current in-demand roles.

In turn, Business Partners had the opportunity to discover more about the underutilized talent pool looking for family-sustaining careers.

Regional Impact:

One of the greatest learnings from this past year is that workforce development is done best regionally. With that in mind, Virginia Ready (VA Ready) established its Southwest expansion efforts in May of 2022. This expansion was missioned with expanding the VA Ready presence in the Southwest Region while increasing collaboration across teams to grow enrollment in FastForward courses at participating colleges, and placing students into jobs with business partners in the area.

The four colleges participating are Central Virginia, Mountain Gateway, New River, and Virginia Western community colleges.

Scholars in Success:

Our Scholars come from diverse backgrounds and represent the full spectrum of diversity across the Commonwealth.
